In 1995, I launched the University's ERI and acted as its first Director (1995-1997). The ERI brings together Europeanists from three Departments: European Studies, Social Sciences, Management. I was responsible for organising the Annual Europe Lecture (1994: Edgard Pisani; 1995: Sir Leon Brittan; 1996: Sir Stephen Wall; 1997: Lord David Williamson; 1998 Lord Christopher Tugendhat; 1999: Keith Vaz; 2000: Chris Patten). I was jointly responsible (with Dr. Alan Butt Philip) for the ERI's successful bid for recognition as a European Union Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence in the first round in 1997.

Executive Director: Euromasters & Transatlantic Masters (1994-2003):

MA in Contemporary European Studies/Transatlantic Studies. I was the initiator of this unique, international Masters programme recruiting up to 80 students annually, with integrated course delivery at eight sites in Europe (Bath; IEP-Paris; Paris III; Free University-Berlin & Humboldt University-Berlin; Siena; Carlos III-Madrid; and Charles-Prague) and three sites in the USA (UNC-Chapel Hill; Duke; and UW-Seattle). In 1995, the programme was awarded an overall grant of $600,000 by the European Union and the US Department of Education (FIPSE) under the EU-US Collaboration in Higher Education scheme. Euromasters, with ESRC recognition, and Erasmus/Socrates funding, is coordinated by Bath University.

Acting Head of Department (European Studies), University of Aston (1984 to 1985).
